

On March 18, 2026, Nurse C accessed the electronic medical record of Patient #88210 while assigned to the patient's care unit.

The access occurred during scheduled treatment rounds and was required to review medication orders and recent lab results prior to administering care.

All discussions regarding the patient's condition took place in a private staff room with authorized team members only.

A review of audit logs confirmed that access and disclosure were consistent with assigned clinical responsibilities.